

News > Cybersecurity > Common Password Managers Vulnerable to Extension Clickjacking

Common Password Managers Vulnerable to Extension Clickjacking

2025-08-21 - Jordan Vint - Cybersecurity

Recent research and security testing has shown that common password managers, such as 1Password and Bitwarden, are vulnerable to an object modification clickjacking attack.

Users are encouraged to immediately check for updates to their password management extensions and applications.

For more information, please review the full alert: 21 August 2025 Critical Password Manager Vulnerability.

- Tags
- 1Password
- Bitwarden
- cybersecurity
- password managers